

EXPLORE ART IDEAS TO SPARK THE IMAGINATION

When youngsters are learning to explore their surroundings and expand their imagination, art can be a beneficial tool. Children learn abilities that they can utilise in school as they get older. Even though art is an important part of a kid's learning process, most parents are unaware of the advantages that come with their child participating in art activities. It is the responsibility of the child's parents to discover a means to change and direct a child's route to success. When children participate in art activities, they learn a variety of skills that will benefit them in school and throughout their lives.

WHAT'S IN THIS MONTH'S ISSUE:

- Tips on how to get art ideas?
- Work your imagination

LEARNING

Learn how to blend colors. It's ideal for a hot day. Freeze some paint cubes (in two or three primary colors) and set them out in the sun to melt while kids paint. See what colours they generate when they collide!

RECREATE A MASTERPIECE!

Print out a masterpiece (such as Van Gogh's Starry Night) and place it next to them so they can try to draw it. What they'll discover in the work of art as they study it to draw is extremely amazing.

Developing a daily habit of creating something new helps kids in boosting their imagination. It's a technique that requires focus, but once mastered, it can be very beneficial for a child. It's important to remember that you don't have to plan or manage every minute of your child's day. Allow plenty of unstructured playtimes so kids can come up with their creative ideas. Limit your screen time and permit yourself to be bored. This is when children will utilise their imagination to come up with something to do.
